NASA Super Touring and Super Unlimited Drivers Grab Early Season Points

The April Kick-off was a spectacular success. We had a lot of last minute class jumping, but ultimately had a couple of nice fields in ST2 and SU. Weather started cool but ended up terrific for early April

Norm Goldrich proved once again that in spite of his fancy air jacks and tire warmers it still takes six or seven laps before the slicks stick. Norm drove the Kelly Moss carbon fiber Porsche 911 GT2 to the top step on the podium Saturday, but bowed out early Sunday when a few rain drops started to fall. It wasn't much rain, but when Norm said "you know I'm thinking it's starting to rain and I'm going 170MPH, probably not worth the risk" I understood. Mike Edmonson ran his John Deere tractor Corvette for an early lead Saturday before Norm reeled him in. Unfortunately a drive train failure ended Mike's weekend there. Mike went for the silver and David Davidson ran his pick-up truck for bronze. Sunday Davidson hauled his way to the top with newcomer Scott Welham and his Viper taking the silver followed by Goldrich. It was great to see Welham make it out as most of his weekend was lost due to radiator and cooling issues.

ST2 did have its share of Corvettes and Old Yeller went wire to wire for the win. The legendary #33 of Rudy Orawiec proved he could go the distance, surviving the mechanical failures of Rick Wilson and Aaron Bambach, and a DQ which pushed Forbis down the list. Sunday proved a little different as Forbis went out at a blistering pace and won the overall race. Wilson and Orawiec followed, but Bambach had to be a spectator when he realized Henry Ford pistons weren't supposed to look like a handful of pocket change.

Next up is Putnam Park ! It's going to be a strong event as we graduated five new Super Touring cars at the Gateway Comp Cchool and they are headed to Putnam. I won't give out all the details, but they are not all Corvettes!

Finally, we're preparing a Super Touring Spectacular event in August at Mid Ohio. Make sure that event is on your calendar!
