Chicago, July 7, 2010, NASA Midwest, Inc.

NASA Great Lakes is pleased to announce Jay Andrew as the new Series Director of the American Iron Series.

We wish to thank Greg Brown for his service to the American Iron community and to NASA Great Lakes as a whole. Greg will be focusing on his day to day responsibilities at Modular Depot, along with event dyno service and racing his AIX Mustang

"We are pleased to have Jay involved. He is an experienced AI racer and 2 time AI National Champion. Jay attends all NASA Great Lakes and many Midwest events holding Brake Tech seminars for our HPDE drivers and assisting racers with their braking needs. He is an asset to our program as a whole," said Bryan Cohn, Director of Competition for NASA Midwest, Inc.

Jay takes the reins for the remainder of the 2010 season, starting with the upcoming Mid Ohio event July 23-25.
